Cassaria Young Hogan

Born	1997
Language Group	Pitjantjatjara
Region	APY Lands, South Australia

Cassaria Young was born in Alice Springs, Northern Territory. Her mother is Susan Young, though artists Amanyi and Stanley Young have looked after her since she was a little baby. Cassaria grew up in Kalka community and attended school in Pipalyatjara. An emerging painter, her works tell the stories of bush trips- digging maku and making cups of tea on the homelands of her grandfather Stanley's country around the Wataru protected area, 100 kms southwest of Pipalyatjara.

Cassaria is a very successful emerging artist and won the Kings School Art Prize in 2022, worth $20,000. She is part of a prolific artistic family, including her Grandfather, Stanley, her father, Timo Hogan and Aunt, Carol, all of whom exhibit nationally and internationally.
